

Plaintiffs filed their Complaint in the Chancery Court for White County, Tennessee alleging breach of contract, violation of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act, unconscionability, promissory estoppel, negligent misrepresentation, and equitable estoppel. Defendant committed acts and omissions while servicing Plaintiffs' mortgage loan and ultimately selling Plaintiffs' home at foreclosure. Defendant participates in the Home Affordable Modification Program (herein after "HAMP"), administered by home mortgage servicers in conjunction with the federal government. In 2012, Plaintiffs fell behind in their mortgage payments and requested that Defendant modify their mortgage loan. Plaintiffs corresponded with Defendant's representatives and provided documentation. While their application for modification was still pending, Plaintiffs received notices of substitute trustee's sale. Plaintiffs were assured by Defendant's representative that the foreclosure sale was cancelled. When Plaintiffs consulted with a bankruptcy attorney, they learned the foreclosure sale had not been cancelled as they were promised. At that time, they had not received a decision on their request for modification.

Plaintiffs request equitable relief in the form of rescission of the foreclosure sale and reinstatement of their mortgage.

3. Defendant's theory of the case:

Bank of America asserts that all of Plaintiffs' claim fail as a matter of law. On June 23, 2014, BANA filed a motion to dismiss Plaintiffs' Complaint for failure to state a claim. [Doc 6]. BANA's motion is currently pending before the Court.

Plaintiffs are not third-party beneficiaries under the National Mortgage Settlement or HAMP and accordingly, the breach of contract claim fails as a matter of law. Similarly, good faith and fair dealing is not a stand-alone claim under Tennessee law and must fail. Plaintiffs' claims under the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act also fail because disputes arising over repossession of the collateral securing a loan are not trade and commerce and do not fall under the purview of the TCPA. Plaintiffs' claim for unconscionability fails because the Plaintiffs were in default and Bank of America was entitled to foreclose based on the loan agreement. Plaintiffs' promissory estoppel claim should be dismissed because an express contract governs the relationship between the parties and a claim for promissory estoppel cannot stand in the face of an express contract. Finally, Plaintiffs' claims for negligent misrepresentation and equitable estoppel should be dismissed because both claims require misrepresentation of a past or present material fact, not a future intention.

4. Identification of the issues:

A. Plaintiffs' identification of the issues:

- I. Whether Defendant breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing?
- II. Whether the foreclosure should be rescinded under the theory of promissory estoppel?
- III. Whether the foreclosure should be rescinded under the theory of negligent misrepresentation?
- IV. Whether the foreclosure should be rescinded under the theory of equitable estoppel?
- V. What relief are Plaintiffs entitled to?

B. Defendant's identification of the issues:

None of the material issues in this lawsuit have been resolved by agreement of the parties. Therefore, the issues of liability and damages are unresolved. BANA asserts that Plaintiffs have failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. BANA's motion to dismiss is currently pending before the Court.

5. Need for other claims or special issues under Rules 13-15, 17-21, and Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure:

The Parties do not anticipate at this time any counter-claims, cross-claims, third-party claims, joinder of other parties or claims, class action certification, or the need for resolution of any issues arising under the above-cited rules.

6. Witnesses:

Plaintiffs currently intend to call as witnesses themselves and an employee of the office of former bankruptcy attorney Arnold Lefkovitz. In addition, Defendant identifies a corporate representative of Bank of America as a witness.

7. Initial Disclosures and Staging of Discovery:

The Parties will make initial disclosures on or before August 18, 2014. All discovery shall be completed by both Parties no later than May 1, 2015. Prior to the filing of any discovery-related motion, the Parties will schedule and conduct a telephone conference with the Magistrate Judge. The Counsel requesting the conference shall check with opposing counsel as to their availability before setting a time certain with the Court.

8. Dispositive motions:

The Parties shall file any and all dispositive motions with the Court no later than August 3, 2015. Responses to such motions shall be filed no later than September 2, 2015. The Parties shall have the opportunity to file a reply to any response no later than September 16, 2015. If dispositive motions are filed early, the response and reply dates are moved up accordingly. The motion and response memoranda are limited to twenty-five pages and the reply, if a reply is filed, is limited to five pages, absent Court permission for longer pleading.

9. Other deadlines:

June 1, 2015 is the final deadline for all motions to amend, or to add parties.

10. Subsequent case management conferences:

11. Alternate dispute resolution:

The Parties have discussed possible settlement without success. It is unknown at this time whether there is any prospect of settlement. Consequently, it is unknown if there is any need for a settlement conference or a need for utilization of alternate dispute resolution techniques.

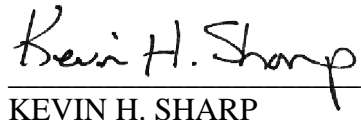

12. Consent to trial before the Magistrate Judge:

The Parties do not consent to trial before the Magistrate Judge.

13. Target trial date:

The Parties estimate that two days will be necessary for trial. The non-jury trial is set for December 8, 2015, at 9:00 a.m. with the final pretrial set for November 2, 2015, at 2:30 p.m. Both set in Cookeville, Tennessee.
